

Light up Teesdale lantern template

One simple design – candles lantern

1. Tear up your favourite light tissue paper into small pieces to cover the jar. Small pieces help them go on the jar and put some glue the jar first, then put the tissue paper onto the jar and paste over with glue.
2. Overlap the pieces and take time with this – care pays off as the tissue paper is thin so you need to be gentle.
3. Cover the sides of the jar but do not go over the rim. Once you have papered the sides, put the jar on its head and cover the bottom with small pieces of tissue paper.
4. Once covered, choose your candle colour – a darker tissue paper will stand out. Cut or tear the tissue paper into candle shapes – they do not need to match. Different widths and heights look good but make sure the candle isn't too tall for the jar and that there is space for the orange and red tissue paper for the flame.
5. Gently paste glue where you'd like your candles – put the candle tissue paper on and paste over with glue. Place all the candles around your jar.
6. Cut little thin pieces of black tissue paper for wicks and stick these onto the candles.
7. Tear red and orange tissue paper into flame shapes. Place these on each candle. Overlapping looks good!

Once complete, please wait to dry before putting your tealight into the jar and seeing how it looks. Please put something under the jar to protect a shelf below as this may get hot when the candle burns down.

Candles can look like this:

Wicks: I I I I

Flames: Tear the orange and red into random flame-like shapes!
